

Social Care Online Geography terms

Geography indexing on Social Care Online

Social Care Online covers both UK and non-UK material. Non-UK material is included if:

- the subject matter is not well covered in UK literature
- it is a comparative study
- it contains topics of relevance to the UK
- it contains overviews of the situation in other countries.

To help users of Social Care Online, geography indexing terms are added to items on Social Care Online to indicate:

- the scope or content of a resource eg where a research study has taken place
- the jurisdiction of a resource eg the country to which legislation or policy applies

Geography indexing on Social Care Online is carried out at country level.

The individual countries of the UK (England, Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland) are also used to index material. For example, the article below which describes an arts and parenting programme which operates in Glasgow for care leavers who are also young parents, would have the country indexing term of Scotland assigned.

'Arts in health: promoting the health and wellbeing of young care leavers',
Scottish Journal of Residential Child Care, 8(2), October 2009, pp.11-17.

When an item refers to multiple countries of the UK, but not all, then multiple country indexing terms are used. For example, the document:

'Annual report of HM Chief Inspector of Prisons for England and Wales: 2002-2003', would have the country indexing terms of England and Wales assigned.

Where items cover the whole of the UK, the geographical index term of United Kingdom is used. For example, the research report 'Don't push me around: disabled children's experiences of wheelchair services in the UK', covers the four countries of the UK in their study and so will be indexed with United Kingdom.

Not all items on Social Care Online have country indexing assigned. For some items it may be unnecessary or misleading to assign country indexing. For example: text books; research studies where the location of the study is not given, or is not clear; and general discussions of practice or social work methods that are not country specific.
